

C-2 Day on the Green at Douglass JHS—Jack Ziegler

One of our big culture/climate components at Douglass JHS was the end of the year Day On The Green. It was an end of the year celebration of the school year where teachers, parents and the community participated in a GIANT carnival of things to do. We involved 100 percent of the faculty and many parents and community members. Students had a free BBQ lunch and myriad activities....Live band, DJ, Karaoke, 3 on 3 basketball tourney, home run hitting contest (and other P.E. Dept games), face painting, several games from Planit Interactive, the Wells Fargo computer bus, additional food booths, etc., etc. Clubs and groups on campus really got into this.

This one event was really a culmination of the good things we tried to do to keep the Lions Pride going.

Note: An activity like this, a tradition that students look forward to, is both a common experience and a rich tradition.
