Are You Holding an Office For the Right Reasons?

Mark Vincent

People run to hold an office for many reasons, but your school, student body and staff benefit only if you have done so for the right reason. To be a passionate leader and make a difference in your school you need to take a look inside yourself first before you try and lead others. What does leadership really mean? Is it having the title or making the office a number one priority not only in your life but in the lives of all those individuals you represent. This session is designed for those who are ready to have the best school year ever!

REAL Leaders
Keith Hawkins
There are so many people looking for REAL leadership, leaders that don’t just talk a good game but play a great game, leaders that have values, integrity, purpose, and commitment. In order to learn these values we need to give leaders the tools to obtain, sustain, and follow through. The definition of leadership is “the ability to get others to follow.” Today’s leaders are struggling to get people to follow them, especially in high school and middle school. Many of the youth leadership organizations I work with are filled with students that have a position of leadership, but most students are not following them. A majority of these leaders have a 3.0 or higher GPA, play one or more sports, are involved in a club or activity on or off the campus, and are rarely, if ever, sent to the dean for suspension or expulsion. These students are great leaders, but it is essential that our student leaders know that they can’t rely on a position of leadership to get their peers to follow them or to truly make a difference. We need to transform these leaders into what I call REAL LEADERS and give them the tools necessary to get their fellow students to follow them and do what’s right. REAL LEADERS master four areas so that people can follow them: Relationships, Empowerment, Attitude, and Leadership. When it comes to leadership, everything starts with the relationship between the leader and the followers. Empowerment is the key to how people see you and how you see others. If you are not empowered, how can you empower people who should be following you? Everything starts and stops with leadership.

The Human Element Kindness Campaign
FresnoUSD/Daniel Lee
The Human Element is a pro-kindness campaign created by Fresno Unified’s Student Advisory Board. The Human Element seeks to instill a sense of unity. Everyone, no matter who they are, shares one thing in common; everyone is human. Although we all have this in common, no two humans are the same. Thus, The Human Element is a project that celebrates our similarities and differences alike to promote kindness as a rule of thumb rather than telling people to simply refrain from bullying. Start with Kindness

Summer Leadership Camps

Summer leadership camps are held each year at UC Santa Barbara. The camps are designed for student leaders who are interested in acquiring skills necessary to become successful school leaders. They work together and network with other students through camp councils. The advisor program, which is parallel to the student program, will cover topics designed to assist new and experienced advisors in developing the most effective strategies to meet their individual school activity plans.

CADA’s Summer Leadership Camps:
- are a great setting to develop personal and interpersonal skills.
- help ensure future success in high school, college and the 21st century work force.
- are staffed by professional and credentialed educators.
- have been training California student leaders for 28 years.

Capture New Leadership Ideas!....CADA/CASL Camps Can Help Your Students to Become...
- DYNAMIC STUDENT LEADERS
- WELL-ROUNDED TEAM PLAYERS
- CREATIVE PROBLEM SOLVERS
- EFFECTIVE COMMUNICATORS
- SUCCESSFUL PRESENTERS
- VISIONARY PLANNERS
- PREPARED FOR COLLEGE AND CAREER STUDIES

After acquiring these skills your student leaders will be prepared to promote a positive school climate, involving and connecting more students on your campus. Check back for registration information!
