

Important Soft Skills for Your Now and Your Future

The vast majority of employers - 77 percent - believe that soft skills (less tangible skills associated with one's personality, such as a positive attitude) are just as important as hard skills (skills that are learned to perform a specific job function and can be measured, such as operating a computer program).

- 1) Candidate has a strong work ethic.
- 2) Candidate is dependable.
- 3) Candidate has a positive attitude.
- 4) Candidate is self-motivated.
- 5) Candidate is team-oriented.
- 6) Candidate is organized, can manage multiple priorities.
- 7) Candidate works well under pressure.
- 8) Candidate is an effective communicator.
- 9) Candidate is flexible.
- 10) Candidate is confident.

SOFT SKILLS – SELF-EVALUATION RECORD _____

Date	M	T	W	Th	F
Strong work ethic
Dependable
Positive Attitude
Self-motivated
Team-oriented
Organized, manage multiple priorities
Works well under pressure
Effective communicator
Flexible
Confident

Rating: P= Positive experience; N= Neutral experience; C= Challenging experience